A THE DEVELOPMENT OF CRITICAL THINKING IN THE SPANISH CLASSROOM

In tune with the New Literacy Studies, we will detail to what extent and how students can acquire skills to manage discursive genres, both oral and written as well as the use of multimodal resources, in a critical and reflective manner. We will analyze what are the best resources and didactic techniques to develop the necessary skills to promote reading and writing into communicative interaction, social participation and personal learning.

B HERITAGE SPEAKERS: SPECIFIC NEEDS IN SPECIFIC CONTEXTS

In recent years, countries such as the United States and Canada, and especially in the university environment, have implemented Spanish teaching programs geared to natives of the language. But who are they and how are their needs different from other learners? In this workshop we will identify their educational needs and navigate through the teaching resources that best suit them.

C INTERCULTURAL COMPETENCE DEVELOPMENT COURSE

In an increasingly globalized society in which relationships with people from other cultures are more and more frequent, it is essential to acquire and develop skills to function fluently in these intercultural encounters and achieve mutual understanding for communicative success.

Unfortunately, when we interact with people from another culture, we do not always take into account a whole series of values, beliefs, ways of thinking, feelings and behavior that are present in an intercultural encounter. In these situations in which two ways of perceiving reality collide, communication may even be hindered. We look at ways to break down these barriers and foster effective communication and mutual understanding.

This session will answer the why it is so important to communicate in a second language and to make our students empathetic listeners and speakers

D METHODOLOGY OF TEACHING SPANISH AND USE OF NEW TECHNOLOGIES

Aimed at teachers of Spanish as a foreign language living outside of Spain. Participants will have the opportunity to reflect and develop their methodologies and teaching techniques by incorporating the latest technology used here to students who live connected to social networks and technology in general. We will look at the latest and most authentic teaching materials we are using today to easily implement into your lesson plan and curriculum.

E COURSE FOR TEACHERS OF BILINGUAL SCHOOLS WITH CLIL/CLIL METHODOLOGY

The CLIL methodology is characterized by its innovative model where students improve communication skills in other languages, while reinforcing curricular content in other areas.

The aim of the course is for the participating teachers to become familiar with the methodology, learn to apply it and reflect on their role as a teacher in the current educational system.
